Madrid Train Bombing Trial

February 19th, 2007

The Madrid train bombing trial opened last Thursday. 29 defendants are on trial for the bombing that took place almost a year ago. As you might expect, the BBC has a good summary online and videos of some aspects of the trial's opening. In light of the Ontario Court of Appeal's test of cameras in the courtroom for the recent Truscott appeal, I thought some readers might like to know that the Madrid trial is being broadcast live on the internet. But because of the time difference, you'll have to get up early to see a Spanish court in session, of course. I was unable to find any recordings of the already completed sessions; if anyone has a link to them, please let us know.

In the same page you named (<http://www.datadiar.tv/juicio11m/>) you can see offline videos. You just have to go down to the section "Intervenciones Anteriores" which mean "Previous Appearances"
